21 DAY STRENGTH RESET · NUTRITION STARTER GUIDE

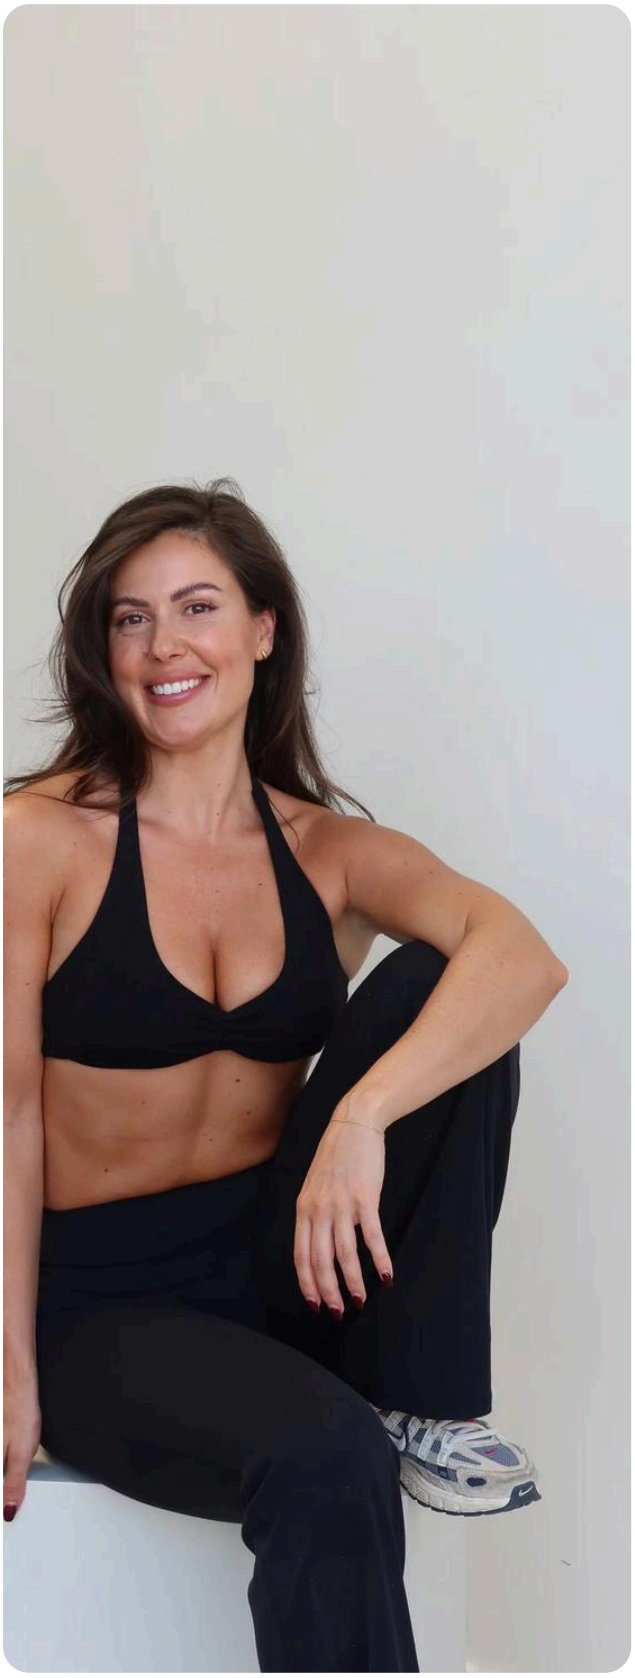

EAT LIKE YOU LIFT.

Your protein target, the one supplement worth taking, ten of Liz's favourite high protein meals and three example days you can copy tomorrow.

BY LIZ DOMENICO, RTB NUTRITION COACH

THIS IS THE EASY HALF.

Liz Domenico, RTB Nutrition Coach.

Welcome to RTB. For the next 21 days your coaches will look after the training. This guide looks after the other half.

It is not a diet. There are no banned foods, no detox teas and no eating 1,200 calories of chicken and rice. It is the handful of habits I give every client first, because they do most of the work.

Get these right and the scale, your energy and your lifts all start moving in the same direction.

THE FOUR THINGS THAT MATTER

1. HIT YOUR PROTEIN TARGET
   The number that builds and keeps muscle while you lose fat. Page 3 tells you yours.

2. EAT YOUR PROTEIN FIRST
   Every meal, protein goes on the plate first and in your mouth first. Page 4.

3. TAKE CREATINE
   The one supplement with decades of research behind it. Five grams a day. Page 5.

4. EAT FOOD YOU ACTUALLY LIKE
   Ten of my go to meals, every one high protein and every one a meal you would order anyway. Pages 6 to 10.

Nutrition Coach, RTB Windsor and Chelsea Heights

YOUR PROTEIN TARGET.

Protein is the one number worth chasing. It builds the muscle your training is asking for, and when you are eating less it stops that muscle being burned along with the fat. The research says 1.6 g per kg of body weight is where the gains top out for most people. [1] We aim for 2 g per kg, so a busy day still lands you above it. [2]

YOU WEIGH	MINIMUM	YOUR TARGET	PER MEAL (4 A DAY)
50 kg	80 g	100 g	25 g
60 kg	96 g	120 g	30 g
70 kg	112 g	140 g	35 g
80 kg	128 g	160 g	40 g
90 kg	144 g	180 g	45 g
100 kg	160 g	200 g	50 g
110 kg	176 g	220 g	55 g
120 kg	192 g	240 g	60 g

Carrying a lot of weight to lose? Use your goal weight, not your current weight.

2 g

of protein per kg of body weight, every day. That is the whole rule.

DO THE MATHS ONCE

Your weight x 2 = your daily grams. Split it over 4 meals and each meal needs about a quarter. A 70 kg woman needs 140 g, so roughly 35 g a meal.

TRACK IT FOR 21 DAYS

Log what you eat in any free app for the Reset. You are not counting forever, you are learning what 35 g of protein looks like on a plate.

HIT PROTEIN FIRST.

Most people get to dinner 60 g short and try to fix it with a shake at 9pm. Flip it. Build every plate around the protein, then add the rest.

1 IT FILLS YOU UP

Protein is the most filling thing you can eat. Eat it first and you naturally want less of everything else. [3]

2 IT BURNS MORE TO DIGEST

Your body uses 20 to 30% of protein's calories just digesting it. Carbs cost 5 to 10%, fat 0 to 3%. [4]

3 IT PROTECTS YOUR MUSCLE

Eating less without enough protein means losing muscle with the fat. That is how people end up smaller but softer.

BUILD EVERY PLATE IN THIS ORDER

1 PROTEIN	2 VEG	3 CARBS	4 FATS
1 to 2 palms	1 to 2 fists	1 cupped hand	1 thumb

And eat it in that order too. Protein first, while you are hungriest.

EASY 20 TO 30 G HITS

31 g 100 g cooked chicken breast	30 g 150 g raw salmon	25 g 1 scoop whey protein
24 g 4 eggs	25 g 120 g raw lean beef	22 g 200 g cottage cheese
22 g 120 g raw prawns	20 g 95 g tin of tuna	15 to 20 g 170 g high protein yoghurt

Approximate values. Two of these in a meal and you are there.

THE ONE SUPPLEMENT WORTH TAKING.

Skip the fat burners and the greens powders. If you buy one thing, buy creatine monohydrate.

1. MORE STRENGTH, MORE MUSCLE
   Paired with lifting, creatine adds to strength and lean muscle gains. It is the most studied supplement in sport. [5]

2. MADE FOR WOMEN TOO
   Women store less creatine than men to begin with, so the benefit can be bigger. Strength, bone and mood all show up in the research. [6]

3. GOOD FOR YOUR BRAIN
   Your brain runs on creatine too. Studies show better short term memory, especially when you are tired or under slept. [7]

4. SAFE, LONG TERM
   Healthy adults have taken it for years in studies with no harm to kidneys or liver. [5,8]

HOW TO TAKE IT

5 g

Creatine monohydrate, every day. Any time of day, with water or in your shake. Training days and rest days. No cycling, no loading, nothing fancy. The cheap plain tub is the one the research used.

"IT'S A STEROID."

No. It is made from amino acids and found in red meat and fish. You are topping up what your body already stores.

"IT'LL MAKE ME BLOATED."

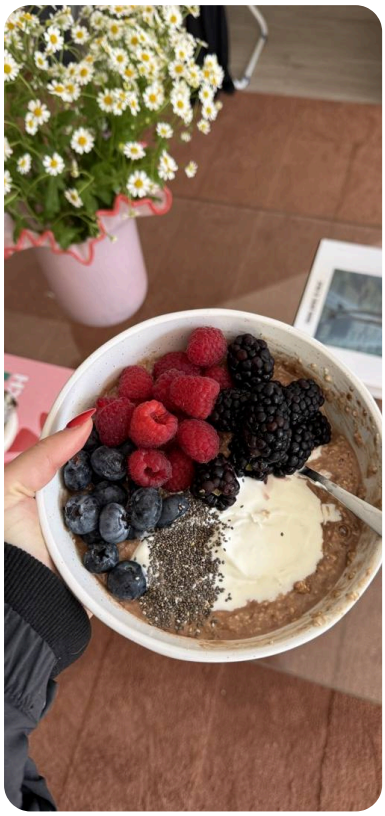

The water goes into your muscle, not under your skin. The scale may move 0.5 to 1 kg in week one. That is not fat.

"I NEED TO LOAD IT."

No. Five grams a day gets you to full in about 3 to 4 weeks. Loading only gets you there faster.

Kidney condition, pregnant or on medication? Check with your GP first.

EXAMPLE DAY 1: 1,600 KCAL.

55 to 65 kg
Body weight this day suits

1,600
Calories, a steady fat loss start for this weight

131 g
Protein, about 2.2 g per kg at this weight

Built from Liz's meal app for a woman around 60 kg losing fat. Four meals, all of them real food.

WHEN	WHAT	KCAL	PROTEIN
Breakfast	Protein Oats with Berries recipe in this guide	408	40 g
Lunch	2 Min Noodle, Liz Edition recipe in this guide	480	38 g
Snack	Cereal and Yoghurt	248	18 g
Dinner	Beef and Broccoli recipe in this guide	445	35 g
TOTAL		1,581	131 G

Four meals and 131 g of protein. That is over 2 g per kg for most women in this range.

Noodles for lunch, beef and broccoli for dinner. This is not diet food.

Hungry at night? Move the yoghurt bowl to after dinner.

A starting point, not a prescription. If you are training 3 to 4 times a week and losing 0.5 to 1% of your body weight a week, it is working. If not, that is exactly what Liz fixes.
